Contents

NUMBER 1, MARCH 1987

P. M. HAIGH. The effect of dry matter content and silage additives on the fermentation of grass silage on commercial farms 1

F. J. GORDON. The influence of the system of silage harvesting and feeding and the use of protected protein on milk production 9

W. F. COLEBROOK AND J. D. MELLOR. Preservation of plant material by large scale sorption freeze-drying 21

J. STAPLETON AND M. B. JONES. Effects of vernalization on the subsequent rates of leaf extension and photosynthesis of perennial ryegrass (Lolium perenne L.) 27

J. FRAME. The effect of strategic fertilizer nitrogen and date of primary harvest on the productivity of a perennial ryegrass/white clover sward 33

T. A. WATT. A comparison of two cultivars of Holcus lanatus with Lolium perenne, under cutting 43

R. H. PHIPPS, R. F. WELLER AND J. A. BINES. The influence of forage quality and concentrate level on dry matter intake and milk production of British Friesian heifers 49

C. S. MAYNE, R. D. NEWBERRY, S. C. F. WOODCOCK AND R. J. WILKINS. Effect of grazing severity on grass utilization and milk production of rotationally grazed dairy cows 59

J. BÉDARD AND G. LAPOINTE. The estimation of dry green biomass in hayfields from canopy spectroreflectance measurements 73

T. D. A. FORBES AND M. M. BEATTIE. Comparative studies of ingestive behaviour and diet composition in oesophageal-fistulated and non-fistulated cows and sheep 79

J. FRAME AND A. G. BOYD. The effect of fertilizer nitrogen rate, white clover variety and closeness of cutting on herbage productivity from perennial ryegrass/white clover swards 85

Book Reviews 97

NUMBER 2, JUNE 1987

J. P. COOPER. Professor E. T. Jones. An appreciation 101

J. P. CURRY. The invertebrate fauna of grassland and its influence on productivity. 1. The composition of the fauna (Review Paper) 103

J. G. HAMPTON, T. G. A. CLEMENCE AND P. D. HEBBLETHWAITE. The effect of lodging on $^{14}C$-assimilate distribution after anthesis in Lolium perenne. cv. S24, grown for seed 121

E. D. WILLIAMS AND M. J. HAYES. Slot-seeding investigations. 5. The effects of simulated delayed emergence and propyzamide on the spread and growth of white clover in permanent pasture 129

E. D. WILLIAMS AND M. J. HAYES. Slot-seeding investigations. 6. A comparison of the spread and productivity of different white clover varieties introduced into permanent pasture 137

J. M. MCBRATNEY. Effect of fertilizer nitrogen on six-year-old red clover perennial grass swards 147

D. R. EVANS AND T. A. WILLIAMS. The effect of cutting and grazing managements on dry matter yield of white clover varieties (Trifolium repens) when grown with S23 perennial ryegrass pasture 153

K. D. GREATHEAD, J. WALLACE AND J. N. BOULTWOOD. The nature of the relationship of electronic capacitance meter readings to pastures on offer in short swards 161

W. J. FULKERSON AND P. J. MITCHELL. The effect of height and frequency of mowing on the yield and composition of perennial ryegrass white clover swards in the autumn to spring period 169

M. M. KASSEM, P. C. THOMAS, D. C. CHAMBERLAIN AND S. ROBERTSON. Silage intake and milk production in cows given barley supplements of reduced ruminal degradability 175

D. REID. A study of the potential of lucerne as a silage crop in a high-rainfall area 185

A. L. WINTERS, P. A. WHITTAKER AND R. K. WILSON. Microscopic and chemical changes during the first 22 days in Italian ryegrass and cocksfoot silages made in laboratory silos (Research Note) 191

NUMBER 3, SEPTEMBER 1987

J. P. CURRY. The invertebrate fauna of grassland and its influence on productivity. II. Factors affecting the abundance and composition of the fauna (Review Paper) 197

J. FRAME AND R. D. HARKESS. The productivity of four forage legumes sown alone and with each of five companion grasses 213

M. R. DEAN, J. H. OLLERENSHAW AND W. S. STEWART. The influence of ethofumesate on the growth and development, chlorophyll and nitrogen content of Lolium perenne L. 225

D. A. DAVIES. Comparative sheep production and herbage characteristics on four perennial ryegrass varieties in the uplands 233

J. LLOVERAS-VILAMANYA. Forage production and quality of several crop rotations and pastures in northwestern Spain 241

R. C. RAE, C. THOMAS, A. REEVE, A. J. GOLIGHTLY, R. G. HODSON AND R. D. BAKER. The potential of an all-grass diet for the late-winter calving dairy cow 249

G. Y. BUTRIS AND C. J. C. PHILLIPS. The effect of herbage surface water and the provision of supplementary forage on the intake and feeding behaviour of cattle 259

W. D. DENNIS AND J. WOLEDGE. The effect of nitrogen in spring on shoot number and leaf area in mixtures 265

J. FRAME AND D. J. PATERSON. The effect of strategic nitrogen application and defoliation systems on the productivity of a perennial ryegrass white clover sward 271

A. W. ILLIUS, B. G. LOWMAN AND F. A. HUNTER. Control of sward conditions and apparent utilization of energy in the buffer grazing system 283

R. Y. LEIBENSPERGER AND R. E. PITT. A model of clostridial dominance in ensilage 297

R. PICCAGLIA AND G. C. GALLETTI. Effect of sample drying on the determination of fibre and water-soluble carbohydrates of maize silage (Research Note) 319

Book Reviews 323

NUMBER 4, DECEMBER 1987

J. P. CURRY. The invertebrate fauna of grassland and its influence on productivity. III. Effects on soil fertility and plant growth (Review Paper) 325

R. P. BLACKSHAW AND J. W. NEWBOLD. Interactions between fertilizer use and leatherjacket control in grassland 343

R. P. BLACKSHAW. Studies on the estimation of sampling error for leatherjackets (Tipula spp.) in grassland 347
